Motion Writing Option

- Each competitor may write a motion in limine arguing for or against the admissibility of exhibits in the record.
- While voluntary, this option offers several benefits:
  - Course credit
  - Practice before pretrial arguments
  - Practice with the Rules of Evidence
- Please note: While scored for purposes of ensuring a good faith effort, the score on your motion will not be incorporated into the score that determines advancement in this competition.

What is a Motion in Limine?

- It is a pre-trial motion, usually to suppress or limit the use of evidence or testimony.
- It is a two-part process: (1) the written motion, and (2) the oral argument of the motion to the Court
- The written motion is formatted as a legal brief, not a memo. The audience is the Court.
- The oral argument is your final chance to persuade the Court your argument is the right one.
- If a Court reserves judgment, the proposing party may raise the motion again at the time of trial for a final ruling.

Requirements of Motion in Limine

- To be eligible for credit, the motion must be at least 5 pages long, but may not exceed 6
- Must satisfy the requirements set forth in the grading rubric, which will be provided upon registration
- Motion must only cover one topic and may only be one of the topics listed in the motions instruction page
- Must be submitted timely, pursuant to the due-dates listed in the rules
- Each partner must submit their own motion in limine for both to receive credit
